Foreword

THIS is the third of the yearbooks which the Journalism Class of the Lexington High school has sponsored. They look forward to the publication with much anticipation since it represents their own work and will last for what they hope will be quite a long period of time.

They feel that it is a worthwhile enterprise and one that enables both pupils and patrons to take a greater pride in the local school. Together with the school paper, The Minute Man, they represent our contact with the public which supports the school. In keeping with the other activities it is not thought wise to make the yearbook a too elaborate production which many would be unable to buy.

The class has striven to make the best possible book with the resources which they are able to muster and they offer the book this year with no apologies. It is within the reach of everyone who has a desire strong enough to cause him to exert a little energy in order to possess a copy.

Journalism

THIS year the class was restricted to eleven members in order that too much duplication would not take place in getting material ready for the paper and yearbook.

The names as they appear on the staff of the paper are:

EDITOR ..... Harold Robinson

ASSISTANT EDITOR ..... Ruth Barr

NEWS EDITORS ..... Lucille Humhprey, Dale Windbigler

SPORTS EDITORS ..... Cecil Smith, Lewis Ryan

FEATURE EDITORS ..... Robert Creps, William Farst

CIRCULATION MGRS.... Kenneth Campbell, Emery Armstrong

ADVERTISING MANAGER ..... Billy Shaffer

FACULTY ADVISER AND INSTRUCTOR, William A. Wickline

Dedication

WE WISH to pay a special tribute to the First Graduating Class of the Lexington High School since it is a half century ago that they finished and made local school history.

At the same time we are giving special notice to all who graduated in the Nineteenth Century. Pictures of eighteen of them appear on another page.

In memory of those who are gone, and with heartiest congratulations to those living we are very happy to be able to recognize their accomplishments in this way.

History of Class of 1890

THE first high school commencement exercises were held in the in the village of Lexington on June 3, 1890. This took place in the old Presbyterian Church on Grange Street.

There were six members in the first class. They were Ella Hill, Lucy Denius, Fanny Siley, Lily Garrett, Jessie George and Arthur Lindsey. Each one wrote and delivered and oration. Music was furnished by home talent. Mr. John Miller was the superintendent.

Arthur Lindsey took up dentistry. He practiced in Mansfield, Dayton and Cleveland. He is now a member of the Cleveland Stock Exchange and lives in Cleveland.

Lily Garrett taught school two years and has spent the rest of her life on a farm not far from Lexington, where she still resides.

Fannie Siley was married to John Carpenter on February 15, 1899, and went to live on a farm near Lexington where she spent the remainder of her life, passing away June 28, 1936.

Lucy Denius taught school until 1895 when, she was married to Frank Hershner. They lived in Morrow County until she died in November, 1899.

Ella Hill taught school and worked as a seamstress. She was married to David McDonald on July 25, 1904, at Grafton, W. Va. She lived for a while in southern Ohio and then returned to Lexington where she lived until her death on February 1, 1939.

Jessie Schindler taught for several years. She was married to Clinton Schindler on May 31, 1906. She still resides in Lexington.

ADMINISTRATION

WILLIAM A. WICKLINE

Superintendent of Schools

Rio Grande College - Ohio State University - Univ. of Washington

FIVE years, or one-fourth of the time he has spent in the services of the public schools, has been here at Lexington. During that period there have been many changes which have enabled the pupils to take advantage of some opportunities which former pupils have missed.

More and more students find their way to his office for some bit of advice or counsel. In addition to his job of supervising the grades and high school, he teaches social science in the twelfth grade, and journalism.

He is first of all at heart a student. His interests are many and diversified. His experiences have been enriched by travel and wide reading.

BYRON H. CARMEAN

Principal of the High School

Ohio University - Ohio State University

MR. CARMEAN is now completing his tenth year of service in the Lexington high school. His entire career as a teacher has been spent here. He has been Principal for seven of the ten years.

In addition to his other duties he teaches history, geography, commercial law and guidance. The last one is a new course instituted this year in order to help freshmen get well oriented in the beginning of their high school career.

His hobby is visiting spots of historic interest which he can use to enliven class discussions in history.

Class Poem for '40

Dear school it is with regret we're leaving
But like all things time passes on.
We know our paths keep going forward
And you, oh school, are just one bond
That helps our souls to grow—expand
To make more light the beaten track
Of life that God bestows upon us
Still, dear one, we pomise we'll be back.

As yet, we're young and proud—ambitious
In us we hold for one gift, Success
But as the years wend slowly onward
Each one of us will see the bliss
Of sharing, farming, building that
Our homes and children—yes, one too
Who stands by us with trustful smile
As we entrust our dear ones to you.

So yet today, as we say good-bye
It is not all with sorrow
For you dear school, left us one thought
And that's to bravely face tomorrow.
Again we give our fond "farewell"
But we stop to look once more
A memory of you will last the years through
'Til in spirit we again enter your doors.

Senior Class History

IN THE fall of '36 fifty-two young hopefuls begin eagerly their high school life. Miss Haber is our adviser at the start and Dick Mayer, Ruth Barr, Bill Shaffer and Betty Heston come out on top in the class election. We are duly and properly initiated at a hilarious Freshman reception. Dick Werner moves to Bellville. Dale Kisling and Dick Heston drop from our class roll and then we are forty-nine. Mid-year exams arrive and pass. Dick Swisher, Gene Miller and Dick Sowash leave us. Now we are down to forty-six. A class party is held at Lucille Humphrey's. Bob Creps and Bill Shaffer get assigned to parts in the school play cast. Margaretan Murray is welcomed to the class roll. Blanche Gamble withdraws to hold the membership even again. Final exams and we are Freshmen no longer.

Time for school again and we're ready too. We feel more important now and even dare at times to take a look inside the big dictionary in the study hall. Miss Prosser gets the assignment to guide us. Dick Mayer, Dick Means, Claude Colbert and Mark Frederick transfer. Lowell Haldeman fails to show up. Election day and Bill Shaffer, Marjorie Ann Hawkins, Cecil Smith and Selma Farst are declared the winners. Pearl Thornton and Neal Becker enter. We get a great delight in initiating the Freshmen. (It doesn't worry us so much this year). Leo Fry moves in from Bellville. Ethel Mull is also added to our rolls. Paul Eckert, Harold Robinson and Bill Shaffer get parts in the school play. Christmas vacation is followed closely by exams. Mildred Rinehart enters but Pearl Thornton and Frances Ricker withdraw. We have another class party. The end of another year swiftly draws to a close. We're getting up in the world—we're Juniors now.

Vacation ends and school begins again. Helen Karbula and Fred Andrews are missing when the roll is called. LaDonna McElvain decides to join our organization. Mr. Fontaine is our new sponsor.

The class organizes, this time with Ruth Barr, Paul Eckert, Lewis Ryan and Geraldine Swigart at the helm. Harvey Allen and Bill Strome put in their appearance. We give our own class play, "The Harvest Queen." Harvey Allen and Vernon Schindler take their departure. Helen Schmidt re-enters from Greenwich. Jim Prosser moves to Bellville and Selma Farst withdraws. Paul Eckert and Lewis Ryan are in the school play. An ice-skating party is held at Swigart's. We sell Christmas cards to raise money. We come back to school to find exams staring us in the face. Jack Swigart and Ed Weiss take leave. A roller-skating party is held with the Seniors. Ethel Mull and Leo Fry leave for Bellville. Class rings are selected and received. We entertain the Seniors at the annual banquet. Remember the "Ballet"? Neal Becker transfers to Duluth, Minnesota. We turn in our books at the end of another year.

We enter school again for the last year. At long last we are Seniors. Only Dale Shrader fails to return. Mr. Carmean takes over the sponsorship. Officers are Harold Robinson, Geraldine Swigart, LaDonna McElvain and Helen Schmidt. We start the party season with a wiener roast at Armstrong's Lake. Shortly a Hallowe'en party follows at Murray's, then a roller-skating party. Basketball season starts. Christmas and Santa Claus arrives, also a vacation. School reopens and we are busier than ever. We go to Shelby to have our likenesses made. We select our name cards and invitations. We hold a sleigh-riding party at Humphrey's and the Juniors join us to hold a roller-skating party. We decide to wear caps and gowns. Harold Myers, Ruth Barr and Robert Creps are in school play. Lucille Humphrey wins third place in essay contest in county. Four of us go to Madison to take Senior scholarship test. The Senior Play is here and after a General Information Test is administered we are ready for graduation. All too soon the long-looked-for day is here and our high school career is over. FINIS.

Senior Class Prophecy

THE date is 1960. I am sitting in my favorite chair in front of an open fire. My thoughts begin to wander back to the good old days, as they often do, to the days when I was in school and among old friends. In order to aid my memory I get up and go over to my library and get out the book which is very dear to me, THE LEXIAN. It is the only one on which I can rely to bring back fully the things which I wish to recall. I turn first to the pages on which I find the pictures of the class of '40. Yes, it seems good to look at their likenesses again.

Just as I was getting buried deeply in my recollections, there is a knock at the door. I went to the door only to find a man who had for several days pestered me to let him tell my fortune. Since I was not busy, I asked him to come inside. After talking awhile I decided he knew a few things and so I inquired whether he could tell me about my old classmates and what they were doing at present. "Of course I can," he answered politely, and this is the story as he told it to me.

"I think the best way for you to gain the information which you seek is for you to see it with your own eyes. So come along with me and I will show you all.

The first thing we did was to go back to Lexington and visit the school. As we went inside we found things much the same. Much to my surprise I found Harold Robinson teaching the Latin class.

At night we decided to take in the basketball game as the team had been very successful so far this season. I soon learned the reason for its success, for when I spied the coach I recognized Bill Shaffer.

The next morning we left for Cleveland, arriving in the city about noon where we stopped at the "Eat and Bust" restaurant owned and operated by the old classmate Paul Eckert. Shortly after we were seated a very charming young lady came to take our order. We recognized her too as the Betty Heston who was in my class. She is head waitress and very enthusiastic about her job.

That afternoon as we were walking along the streets my companion said, "Do you recognize the fellow in a policeman's uniform?" Of course I did, another schoolmate, Bill Parrott. He had added a lot of weight, but other ways he resembled his more youthful appearance.

That night as we were on our way to the hotel, we were attracted to an extremely large car stopping at the curb. A very dignified couple got out of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Armstrong, the latter being the former Iva Baker. He is now a scientist connected with one of the large factories in Cleveland.

After a short talk with them we went into the hotel. We dropped into the dining room where the orchestra was playing. Armstrong nudged me and asked if I recognized the leader. To my surprise and delight I found it to be "Stub" Farst's orchestra playing. They had been here for a very long engagement.

The next day as we journeyed south we noticed a large airport. As we came nearer we discovered it was an army air base. We took some time to go in and inspect the place. As we neared the office we found the name on the door to be a rather familiar one, Robert Dickson. We entered and engaged him in conversation. He seemed delighted with his work and had been there long enough to be considered a fixture.

As we drove on South we passed a very large farm which we learned to be a partnership affair owned jointly by Daniel Fhurer and Dale Windbigler. We learned also that it had been a very successful venture from a financial standpoint.

We came next to a large city. While driving through the center of the place we found a large crowd in front of a building. Being as curious as the rest we decided to investigate. We soon found that the attraction was an ice-skating team which although they used stage names turned out to be Harold Myers and Geraldine Swigart.

As the afternoon drew to a close, we took a stroll down the business section. We had been so busy we did not take time out for lunch. Not being acquainted I strolled over and asked a well-dressed young man, who appeared to be waiting for a bus, if he could direct us to a good place to eat. When he turned to answer I almost fell over. There was William Strome staring right at me. We shook hands and in a jolly tone of voice he said, "Why of course I do." He invited us to his home just inside the city limits. While dining with him he told us of his trip during vacation last summer. He had gone into the deep south. While there he reported that he and his friends purchased all their meat from Robert Creps. He had purchased his market from an elderly gentleman who was ready to retire.

Leaving him we continued our journey. As we drove along listening to the radio, we heard a play being broadcasted in which Marjorie Ann Hawkins was taking the leading role. She had obtained leave from Hollywood to make this special broadcast.

When driving along in the splendid sunshine of the south, we saw a large column of smoke in the road ahead of us. Hurrying to the scene we found there had been a serious accident. Two men were badly injured. We took them in our car and rushed to the nearest hospital. As we drove into the lot we saw two doctors and a nurse rush out to meet us. One of the doctors was Kenneth Campbell. We stayed around to learn how badly the men were hurt. After the emergency had passed we learned from Kenneth that Margaretan Murray was now a trained nurse and had been at the hospital for quite a long time. We learned through them that LaDonna McElain is a doctor in South Africa.

We traveled westward next to Iowa where we found Lewis Ryan working on a cattle ranch. This was the life he had always longed for and he now confessed that he was as happy as he could be. He did not want to change occupations with any one in the world.

We passed up a lot of sights because we were interested most in classmates so we hurried back to Columbus, Ohio, where we happened upon Ruth Barr near the University at the noon hour. She is now teaching at Ohio State and is very happy in her chosen profession. She informed us that Jane Baker had married a very wealthy man who was in the oil industry. They had corresponded since graduation time.

We went from Columbus directly to New York. Here we found Gerald Bachelder owned a large newspaper. We went to his office to have a talk with him. He was married to a girl he had met after he went to New York. He informed us that Lucille Humphrey was editor of another of the large newspapers in that city. He also passed along to us the information that Martha Griebling is a secretary in the Ford factory in Detroit. He stated that he wrote to her occasionally for news about the Ford Company that he could use in his paper.

From New York we journeyed to New Haven, Connecticut, where we found Grace Kennedy married to one of the Professors at Yale University. Continuing on across the state to Niagara Falls, we decided to cross to Canada. We found Cecil Smith the chief interrogator of prospective visitors to Canada. He told us of many interesting questions and answers he had heard since being on the job.

On our way back through Buffalo we became lost. While at a police station making an inquiry we noticed a young lady leave the office who recognized us. She was Blanche Yeager, who had been a secretary to a police judge for a number of years.

On our way back to Cleveland we heard an airplane droning above us. Since the port was close we drove over to see it land. When the steps were rolled up to the door, the stewardess, Opal Fox, stepped from the plane. A little later we got a chance to talk with her. She told us she had traveled all over the world by plane. She informed us that Mildred Rinehart was married to a French engineer and was living in Paris. She also told us that Helen Schmidt was in Africa teaching the negroes how to read, write and spell. Opal told us that she only got home about once every five years.

"Was there anything else that you wished to know, Sir?" asked the fortune teller. I just sat there in my chair as I was unable to speak a word. After a while it came to me just what was happening. He laughed loudly for some time and then said, "I guess I shouldn't have told you the whole story in one evening, but you seemed so interested that I couldn't stop telling the story."

Before this I had never taken any stock in fortune tellers. But from the story he just told me I was thoroughly convinced that he had something there. As he refused to take anything in the way of pay, I will pass the story on to you free of sharge.

FINIS

Senior Class Will

BEING of sound minds and serious dispositions, we, the members of the Senior Class of 1940, do hereby declare the following to be our last will and testament, and hereby request the officers of the Junior Class to execute the bequests herein made, without bond and in fee simple.

Martha Griebling wills to Wilbur Wade her curly hair so that he can save his time used in standing before a mirror trying to push a wave in his hair. To the juniors she gives her swift walk in order that they may be able to come more swiftly to their senior years. Her blushing ways go to Ruth Baker.

Geraldine Swigart bequeaths her straight A's to Irvin Clever (all in good faith), her ability to tickle the ivories to Eleanor Lubold.

Lucille Humphrey wills to Mary Luedy her baby stare which gets them all. She wills to Martha Lou Sowers her wacky jitterbugging.

William Strome leaves to Orland Hoover his boldness in and outside of classes, his beautiful blond hair to Dorothy Clever.

Billy Shaffer wills to Raymond Clever his mighty desire to work and his clever ability in basketball, to Mr. Irvin his new physics book, to all the boys his dutiful obedience to his Juliet.

Jane Baker bequeaths her excess weight to Katherine Lawrence, to Frances Jean Eckert she gives her everlasting impish smile.

Ruth Barr wills her unfailing humor to Anna Bonyai, her erectness to Martha Stone, her old maid parts in school to anyone who desires them, and her flattering talk to Carol Chapin.

Robert Dickson bequeaths his basso profundo to Eugene Schwan, his professorship to Shelly Dillon, his good looks to Martin Fuhrer.

Harold Robinson wills his dignity and wisdom to Bob Reams, his editorship to Frances Altman, his good grades to his sister Marie.

Paul Eckert gives to Laurann Seneff his beautiful long black eyelashes, to Paul Kochheiser his ability to fix farm implements, his praise of Studebakers to Mr. Sawyer and his pep to Donn Horchler.

Margaretan Murray passes on her poetical ability to Mildred Lawrence and her stupendous giggle to Bob Snyder.

Bill Parrott wills his coloraturo sponrano voice to Paul Weigler, his dexterity on skates to Billy Murray and his big talk to Nelson Reel.

Marjorie Ann Hawkins bequeaths her radio work to Helena Castor, her dramatic ability to Pat Boylan, her natural curls to Robert Vanderbilt.

Emery Armstrong wills his affection to Doyal Slaton, his auburn curls to William Dale Ritchie.

Iva Baker wills her feminine ways to all girls who wish to acquire more poise, her ability to cook and sew to Mary McNaul.

Robert Creps bequeaths to Herman Boebel his bologna slicers, sausage grinders and cheese knife to assist him in his future work, his wisecracks to Donnie Myers.

Harold Myers wills his ability in typing to Richard Creps so that he can assist his father in business.

Kenneth Campbell leaves his girlish blushing to Robert Geib, his habit of coming late to class to Arthur Lape.

Mildred Rinehart wills her art of dressmaking to Elizabeth Simon, her love for walking to and from the bus to Billy Weiss.

Blanche Yeager gives her sweet smiles to Joan Frizzell, her height to Ethel Heston.

Opal Fox leaves her swagger to Dorothy Auker, her love of scribbling to Helen Cashell, her stubbornness to Marjorie Jesson.

William Farst leaves his abiliity to look wise for what good reason to George Swigart, his Fords to Lester Griebling.

LaDonna McElvain bequeaths to Glenna Jean Campbell her bold and audacious manner, her best wishes to the incoming senior class.

Helen Schmidt leaves to Pauline France her love for the study of physics, her love affairs to Lois McLaughlin.

Dale Windbilger wills his Romeo ability to Stanley Parrott, his knowledge of farming to John Schmidt.

Cecil Smith bequeaths his red pouting lips to Glada Bachelder, his studiousness to Richard Palmer.

Betty Heston wills her loud, determined corrections in English to Esther Sowash, her vitality to Betty Snyder.

Daniel Fuhrer leaves all his blue ribbons to Paul Kochheiser, his bubble gum to the next group of seniors.

Gerald Bachelder leaves his ability as an eraser thrower to Calvin Rinehart, his ability to fix bunsen burners in physics class to Marcile Shaffer.

Grace Kennedy wills her boy friends from Mansfield to Margaret Sabo, her love for school to Dorothy Dill.

Lewis Ryan leaves his skating ability to Wayne Coldwell his girl friends to Emer Roberts.

The class leaves our home room to the Class of '41. We sincerely ask them to keep the erasers where they belong and the desks in straight lines.

In witness whereof, we affix our seals this twenty-eighth day of May, A. D., 1940.

Directed by MISS CATHERINE PAINTER

THE STORY

The play takes place in a small town. The Jasper farm is called Sycamore Lane. Jane, a niece of the Jaspers, has lived with Miranda and Grace ever since her father died and her actress mother, Marian Marsh, went away to find work.

A cousin of the Jaspers', Crystal Cluett, came down from New York. Her attorney, Schuyler Pell, came to visit and fell in love with Grace Jasper. Douglas Smith, a young New Yorker, gets a factory started on the paint formula written by Jane's father.

The comedy was furnished by Ollie Dinkleberry, the school teacher; Jason Gouch, the meanest man in town; and Nola Miller, the town gossip.

Girls' Glee Club

THIS year more work was done on blending voices and singing songs with more difficult rhythm and two and three-part harmony. Two of the more difficult numbers were "The Viking Song" and "Carmena." They also worked on folk and art songs.

Several books were placed in the library. These books were on composers lives and their compositions, theory of music, diction, and technique.

IDORA EVANS, a girl in her late teens, maid of all work at the hotel ..... Marie Luedy

EMMA LAMBERT, a charming woman in her late forties who has devoted her entire life to her daughter ..... Winogene Queen

SLIM LAMBERT, a typical small time boy, nicknamed "Slim" because of his elongated figure ..... Eugene Schwan

ENID LAMBERT, a charming woman in her late forties who has girl ..... Pauline France

HAROLD ORR, the sort of person who is referred to as "the life of the party" ..... Paul Weigler

MRS. HAROLD ORR, a woman who is inclined to be of a jealous nature, and given to more than slight exaggeration, Helen Mentzer

ROLLO JONES, a timid and shy boy of nineteen, who is aversed to anything that requires a great deal of effort, Paul Kochheiser

ZELLA FIERY, a young, ambitious newspaper reporter, Carol Chapin

EMORY JONES, a distinguished appearing gentleman of fifty and the father of Rollo ..... Martin Fuhrer

Directed by MISS RUTH MORRIS

THE STORY

The comedy centers around a summer resort hotel known as "Barge Inn," owned by Mrs. Lambert, and her guests. Her daughter, Enid, is an admirer of athletes. When Rollo Jones, who enjoys poor health, relaizes this fact the situation becomes rather complicated. Harold Orr does all he can to encourage the complication by entering Rollo in a race under the name of "Speed" Mack. As the story progresses it becomes more involved. But the story ends happily with Enid and Rollo engaged to be married.

CAROL COREY, Howard's older sister ..... Geraldine Swigart
PROFESSOR VIRGIL BEAN, zoology department ..... Robert Dickson
DR. DIXON. President of Brookfield College ..... Bill Parrott

Directed by MISS JEANNE DE ROLPH

THE STORY

This play is typical of the happenings that go on the day before Commencement at a small eastern college. When an art student, a chemistry major, and another senior who types frantically at a term paper on zoology get together and mistake the wealthy Mr. Purcell for a Bolshevik, bedlam breaks loose. This plus a deathbed scene put on by the collegians, and many other laugh-provoking incidents made it a fast and furious comedy.
